Gifting suites leading up to the Emmy Awards this past Sunday began as early as six days prior to the event and continued throughout the week.

Although there were far too many to account for, below are some highlights.

The Silver Spoon Buffet at Adrienne Maloof's Estate in Beverly Park to benefit the Noreen Fraser Foundation, which focuses on finding a cure for women's cancers.

Highlights: Held on the Maloof backyard and tennis courts, this suite had Sketchers offering up pairs of shoes from their new Shape Ups collection, hair care products from Ovation and Nexxus, jewelry from Lois Hill and Skineez Skincareware undergarments. Also, shoes and purses from Menbur, stationary from Tiny Prints, Emile Sloan Totes and glass pens & photo coasters from Beau Coup.

Awesome item: women's sexy Halloween costumes from Seven 'til Midnight including a sexy police officer, a sexy race car driver, a sexy hippie and more.

Practical item: If you love wine, then opt for wines from Cleavage Creek Cellars, which pictures breast cancer survivors on the label of each wine bottle. Their story is told on the company's website. Talk about putting a face on cancer.
